DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1, 2, 9, 10, 12, 21, 23-27, 30-33, 42-53 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:
3. In regard to claims 1, 2, 9, 10, 12, 21, 23-27, 30-33, and 51-53, the system claimed dispatching a first request from the client to the server, wherein the first request specifies a first remote procedure call (RPC), and wherein the first RPC comprises at least one argument for executing a program on the server; in response to the first request dispatched from the client to the server, receiving a first response from the server, wherein the first response comprises a result of the first RPC; ... storing the first request/response latency at the client until a second request specifying a second RPC is generated by the client; appending the first request/response latency to a header of the second request from the client to the server; and dispatching, from the client to the server, the second request with the header, wherein the second request specifies the second RPC, and wherein the second RPC is different from the first RPC. A system of measuring the delay for a response to a first RPC, storing the delay as a value, and then appending the delay value to the header of a subsequent RPC and transmitting the subsequent RPC with the delay value is not found in or obvious over the prior art. The prior art teaches similar methods, but no prior art was located where the latency value was appended to a header of a second subsequent RPC, where the second RPC was different from the first RPC.

4. In regard to claims 42-50, the elements of the data structure, stored on the computer storage medium, which are processed by the processor, are arranged and comprised of such elements that are not taught by or obvious over the prior art.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
